VOL. VII

DIDSBURY, ALBERTA, FRIDAY, JANUARY 22 1909.

No. 4

JANUARY CLEARANCE

Men's & Boys Suits and Overcoats

A sale that's an invitation to come and buy what clothing you want at a reduction in price. Once a year we take stock. It is good business to know where you stand. There is no theorizing here—conditions are what tell. In taking account of stock we find many different things that had better be sacrificed rather than have them as an asset. These are thrown out for a mere nothing as to price—they are things you want and we don't want. The lowest prices of the year come about now. Come and see for yourself what we call "special." These prices are all greatly reduced:

Men's Overcoats reg. $14.00 now $11.00
" " " " 12.50 " 9.50
" " " " 18.00 " 12.00
" " " " 19.50 " 15.00
" " " " 15.00 " 11.00
" " " " 12.50 " 8.50

Doing things as they ought to be done is a good business principle, and is the underlying strata of this business. Did you ever know such a store? Having the goods best worth your buying at the fairest of fair prices—de-stress all dull seasons. This is the time of the year we half give things away in order to make room for spring. Our season ends long before yours. We've set the alarm clock going and almost everything in the store is selling for less.

Town Meeting

The Meeting of ratepayers held on Monday night in the Opera House was a decided success, and shows that if they are given the chance they are only too willing to give their advice on matters concerning the interest of the town. There were about one hundred ratepayers present who took an active interest in the matters brought up for discussion.

The meeting was called for the discussion as to the advisability of again presenting bylaws to the people for the erection of a town and fire hall and issuing debentures for the payment of same, also as to whether the chemical engines ordered by the council should be paid for by debenture or out of current taxes.

The first question taken up was the payment for the fire engines which led to some criticism of the purchase of the engines by some members of the old council who had already decided to buy the same engines if the recent by-laws had carried. Some of the remarks were unfeeling and caused a little hard feeling to be exhibited, but on the whole those present seemed to feel fairly well satisfied that the present council had used their own discretion in this matter to the interests of the town and were satisfied.

On votes being called for it was found that the meeting did not think it wise to build a town hall this year which brought out the question as to how the engines should be bought.

After some discussion it was thought best to erect a small building to contain lock-up, fire hall and small bedroom for two men, which was thought should not cost more than $500 or $600 dollars, and that this amount should be added to the rest of the fire engines and the whole be paid for by three equal payments. As it was stated the Council had no right to create a debt of this kind but only by paying for it in one year, the meeting decided that a by-law authorizing the council to create a debt of this amount be placed before the ratepayers.

The feeling of the meeting was that no debenture debt should be placed on the town at present.

Some members of the School Board who were present stated that the School Board were willing to let the council use their room at the School for council meetings which would overcome that difficulty. The meeting then adjourned.

Council Meeting

The Council met on Tuesday evening in the Council chamber, Mayor Corbitt, Councillors Hunsperger, Moyer, Good, Osmond, Liesemer and Clerk Ely being present.

The following bills were passed: J. M. Reed $24.00; Pioneer $1.50; W. H. Smith & Co. $10.45.

The matter of renting the building used as Council chamber was taken up and after some discussion it was moved by Councillor Osmond and Good that the Civic Works committee bring in a report at next Council meeting on the approximate cost of fixing the present Council chamber as a fire hall, also a rough estimate of cost of a small building for same.

An amendment by Councillor Liesemer that the Civic Works committee be instructed to leave present building for fire hall and have same fixed by owner did not receive a second and the motion carried on the following division: Yeas, Osmond, Hunsperger, Moyer, Good, Nays, Liesemer.

The financial report for the year 1908 was read by the Secretary and adopted by the Council. The report will be published before Feb. 15th, according to Ordinance.

The matter of sending a delegate to the Convention of Alberta Municipalities to be held in Edmonton on Jan. 26th, was taken up and on motion by Councillor Liesemer and Osmond Mayor Corbitt was appointed delegate. The Council then adjourned.

Didsbury 3-Red Deer 1

The league hockey game on Tuesday afternoon between Didsbury and Red Deer resulted in favor of the home team by a score of 3-1. The game was not fast at any stage, the ice being so soft that part of it was covered in water which made it exceedingly hard playing for both teams. As the Red Deer team was short one man only six men a side were played.

The Red Deer men were a fairly good bunch of players but failed to run the score up, the one goal they made being in very easy. The Didsbury puck shooters played none of an individual game by a score of Curtis and E. Sexsmith, excelled, they making the three scores.

G. M. Gaddies was the referee and satisfied the majority of the large number of enthusiasts present with his decisions. He penalized one of the Didsbury team twice for misplay.

The line up for both teams were as follows:

Didsbury	Red Deer
Kaymer	Goal Clayton
Pearson	Point Capt. Beckett
E. Sexsmith	C. P. Marm
Capt. Curtis	L. W. Gait
Stark	R. W. Brumpton
Reider	Centre Heuston

STANDING OF THE TEAMS

Won	Lost	Draw
Oaks 3	1	1
Didsbury 2	1
Lacombe 2	1	1
Red Deer 0	3
Stettler 0	3

The Didsbury team go to Lacombe on Jan. 28, next Thursday, to play a game with that town. They are also scheduled to play a game with Stettler the next day at Lacombe, but it is reported that Stettler is out of the running.

CHAPTER XIV.

AS upon a world enveloped with storm, hung with mourning purple and habited in black, did Mr. Pittcroft turn his morning face at 8 o'clock antedimeridian Monday as he laid himself to his daily duty at the Washington National bank. Yet more than the merely funeral gloomed out from the hillocky area of his countenance. Was there not, faintly, a glow, a vesperal shimmer, beneath the mark of that darkling eye? Was there one, think you, to turn the other cheek? Little has he learned of Norbert. Pittcroft conceives that this fiery spirit was easily to be quenched! Look upon the jaw of him and let him who dares maintain that people—even the fieriest—like themselves—were to grind beneath their brougham and a prostrate Norbert and ruse on seatless! In this his own metaphor is easy to guess too. They don't run over he Martin Pike better look out how he lies!

So Mother Nature at her kindly tasks, good Norbert, uses for her ingenuitous own perfect inconsistency, and often when we are stabled deep in the bravest self-distrust by thin scratches in other parts, that in the itch of those may we forget the greater hurt till it be healed. Thus, the remembrance of last night, when you undignifiedly ran from the wrath of a Pike, with a pretty girl looking on its say nothing of the acid of who will fling the legend on a thousand winds, might well agonize you now, as in less hasty moments and at a safe distance, you brood upon the piteous figure you cut. On the contrary, behold! You see no blood crimsoning the edges of the horrid gash in your nape, or self-inflicted wound, smart and scratch the scratches, forgetting your wound in the hot itch for vengeance. It is an itch which will not for in such matters your spirit shall be steadfast, and let the great Goliath in the mean time beware of you! You ran last night. You ran—of course you ran. Why not? You ran to fight another day!

A bank clerk sometimes has opportunities. The stricken fat one could not understand how it came about that he had blurted out the damning confession that he had visited a fever house. When he tried to solve the puzzle, his mind refused the strain, became foggy and the terrors of his position assailed him. He was like Joe, in London, to endure the pain of Canan and the hind stand excommunicated beyond the pale because of Martin Pike's displeasure? For Norbert saw the perfect fairness today what the judge had done for Joe. Now that he stood in danger of a fate identical this came home to him. How many others had stood in his shoes as he had done and written notes such as he had received by the hand of Sam Warden late last night?

Year Sir—this from Martin, who in the Canadian way, was content to address him as "North." My father wishes me to state that the letter which he yesterday afternoon on the steps, which was forwarded by my mother, who happened to be standing in the hall behind you and your behavior to himself later on he considers it impossible to allow you to call any more or to speak to any member of his household.

MARTIN PIKE.

Erasures and restorations bore witness to a considerable doubt in Martin's mind concerning "Yours respectfully," but she had finally let it stand, evidently convinced that the plain signature, without prefix, savored of an intimacy denied by the day.

"Dear sir!" repeated Norbert between set teeth. "It is impossible to allow you to call any more." These and other terms of his misbehavior required him during the morning, and even now he looked up from his desk, his lips moving to the tune of those horrid phrases, as he strode down the street. Basilisk glaring this, with no Christian softness in it, not even when it fell upon his own grandfather, sitting among the seats within eyes of a shot from the big window at Norbert's elbow. However, Colonel Pittcroft was not disturbed by the gaze of his descendant, being, in fact, quite unaware of it. The aged men were having a busy morning.

The convalescent was not what it had been. (See Arp and all his works.) There had come as the years went by a few recruits, but faces were missing. The two Talors had gone, and Thiele Joe Dwyer could no longer attend to the patriarchy. He had laid it down, with a half sigh, and gone his way. Eskew himself, the oldest of the courier fathers, the colonel and Squire Bucklelaw pressing him closely, with Pitt Bradford no great time behind.

Today they did not plant their feet upon the brass rail inside the lobby windows, but courted the genial weather outdoors and, as their summer custom was, tilted back their chairs in the shade of the western wall of the building.

"And who could do dreamed," Mr. Bradford was saying, with a side glance of expectancy at Eskew. "That Jonas Tabor would ever turn out to have a niece like that?"

Mr. Arp ceased to fan himself with his wide straw hat and said grimly: "I don't see as Jonas has 'turned out'—not in particular! If he's turned at all lately I reckon it's in his grave, and I'll bet he has if he had any way of hearin' how much she must of spent for clothes!"

"I believe," Squire Bucklelaw began, "that young folks' memories are short."

"They're lucky!" interjected Eskew. "The shorter your memory the less meanness you know."

"I meant young folks don't remember as well as older people do," continued the squire. "I don't see what's so remarkable in her comin' back and brakin' up street with Joe London. She used to go kiltin' round with him all the time before she left here. And yet everybody talks as if they never heard of such a thing."

"It seems to me," said Colonel Pittcroft hesitatingly, "that she did right."

"I know a good kind of a queer thing to say, and I stirred up a good deal of opposition at home yesterday evening by sort of mentioning something of the sort. Nobody seemed to care."

"I with me except Norbert, and he didn't say much, but—"

He was interrupted by an uncontrollable rattle which issued from the mouth of Mr. Arp. The colonel turned upon him, with a frown, inquiring the cause of his mirth.

"It put me in mind," Mr. Arp began promptly, "of something that happened last night."

"What was it?" Eskew's mouth was open to tell, but he remembered just in time that the grandfather of Norbert was not the audience properly to be selected for a cool story of a half-born woman, confided lightly, realizing that he must withhold the story of the felling of Martin Pike until the colonel had taken his departure, and replied:

"Nothing to speak of. Go on with your argument."

"I've finished," said the colonel. "I only wanted to say that it seems to me that you're a young lady like that to come back here and stick to her old friend and neighbor."

"Stick to him!" echoed Mr. Arp. "She walks up Main street with him yesterday. Do you call that stickin' to him? She's been away a good while; she's forgotten what Canan is."

"You wait till she sees for herself just what his standing in this town!"

"I agree with Eskew for once," interrupted Pitt Bradford. "I agree because—"

"Then you better wait," cried Eskew, allowing him to proceed to roar. "Till you hear what you're accused to! I say you take a young lady like that—pretty and rich and all cultured up, and it stands to reason that she won't!"

"No, it don't!" exclaimed Bucklelaw indignantly. "Nothing of the sort! I tell you."

Eskew rose to his feet and pounded the pavement with his stick. "It stands to reason that she won't stick to a man no other decent woman will speak to, a fellow that's been the mark for every stone thrown in the town ever since he was a boy, an onest man with a reputation as black as a preacher's shoes on Sunday! I don't care if he's the oldest friend on earth, she won't stick to him! She walked with him yesterday, but you can mark my words, his shoes is cooked!"

Mr. Arp's voice rose shrill and high. "It ain't in human nature for her to do it! You hear what I say—you'll never see her with Joe London again in this livin' world, and she as good as told me so herself last night. You can take your oath she's quit him all right!"

Eskew paused abruptly, his eyes widening behind his spectacles. His jaw fell. His stick, raised to hammer the pavement, remained suspended in the air. A sudden cold rush over his face, and he dropped speechless in his chair. The others after staring at him for a moment, alarm followed the direction of his gaze.

Just across Main street and in plain view was the entrance to the stairway which led to Joe's office. Ariel Tabor, all in cool gray, carrying a big bunch of white roses in her white gloved hands, had just crossed the sidewalk from a carriage and was ascending the dark stairway. A moment later she came down again empty handed, got into the carriage and drove away.

"She missed him," said Squire Bucklelaw. "I saw him go out half an hour ago. But," he added, and, exercising a self-restraint close upon the sully, did not even look toward the group which was Mr. Arp. "I notice she left her flowers!"

Ariel was not the only one who climbed the dingy stairs that day and read the penciled script upon Joe's door: "Will not return until evening." Joe London. Many others came all exceedingly unlike the first visitor. Some were quick and watchful, dodging into the narrow entrance furtively; some smiled contemptuously as they went; some were in view of the street, drooping wily as they reached the stairs; some were braced and amused, and some were thin and troubled. All of them read the message, for not all could read, but all looked curiously through the half-opened door at the man whose face and lifted hands looked delicately from a water pitcher on Joe's desk to set that dusty place with their cool breath.

Most of those who after a grant of disappointment turned and went away, though there were a few, either unable to read the message or so pressed by anxiety that they disregarded it, who entered the room and sat down to wait for the absentee. There were plenty of chairs in the office now, bookcases also and a big steel safe.

When evening came and the final gray of twilight had vanished from the window panes all had gone except one, a woman who sat patiently, her eyes upon the floor and her hands folded in her lap, until the footsteps of the last of the others to depart had ceased to sound upon the pavement below. Then with a wince, exclamation, she sprang to her feet, pulled the window shade carefully down to the sill and

A lady beautifully dressed in white sat on the bench in the doorway when she had done that struck a match on the heel of her shoe—a soiled white canvas shoe, not a small one—and applied the flame to a gas jet. The yellow light flared up, and she began to pace the room huggardly.

The courthouse bell rang 9, and as the tremors following the last stroke pulsed themselves into silence she heard a footfall on the stairs and immediately relapsed into a chair, folding her hands again in her lap, her expression composing itself to passive waiting, for the step was very much lighter than Joe's.

A lady beautifully dressed in white entered the room. She hesitated at the threshold, not, apparently, because of any timidity (her expression being too thoughtfully assured for that), but almost instantly she came in and seated herself near the desk, acknowledging the other's presence by a slight inclination of the head.

Use For Sealing Wax. Sealing wax, properly melted at a certain heat, becomes a thick paste ready for modeling any given object. In a more liquid form, mixed with alcohol, it is used as a paint with a brush for accentuating and following designs on leather articles or imitating Japanese cloisonne on china, the latest artistic craze in Paris. Items dipped in the bath of wax are soon coated with the bright substance. Merely heated in the usual way at the light of a candle or lamp, the wax is dried and forms, when well managed by the operator, solid scales, canoes, open twists and shapes, flowers and birds or transforms the hats or oval heads of pins, as well as buttons, combs and buckles, into the semblance of precious stones, according to the color employed for the coloring. The dripping method is the favorite one in England, where there is a decided vogue for this form of waxwork, even for covering the outlines of the front of her shirt waist.

To go with the buttons, of which there should be four if as large as a two-cent piece and five if smaller, she could crochet or buy narrow Irish crochet edging for down each side of the box plait, around the cuff and Dutch collar.

For the Girl Who Crochets. The girl who likes a bit of crocheting on hand should immediately make for herself a set of Irish crochet buttons for the front of her shirt waist. To go with the buttons, of which there should be four if as large as a two-cent piece and five if smaller, she could crochet or buy narrow Irish crochet edging for down each side of the box plait, around the cuff and Dutch collar.

And the Animal Responded With a Surprise For Mr. Man.

The keeper at the Toronto Riverdale Zoo, chucking these days over a mishap that befell a rather young gentleman, who presumed to take liberties with the elephant the other day.

It appears that the elephant, though young, is about twenty, a more child, as elephants go—has a very well-developed sense of dignity, and resorts keenly on any attempt made to belittle her or her position. Some days ago a young man, accompanied by a girl, strolled into the animal house and proceeded to show off at the expense of the elephant.

He snatched his fingers at her, her small things in her face, and tried generally to impress his companion and ally present with the fact that he was a sort of reincarnation of Kipling's Toomai of the Elephants.

CANADIAN BARONETCY

SIR E. S. CLOUSTON IS SIXTH TO GET HONOR.

Dominion's Greatest Banker Who Has Received Hereditary Title Was Born at Moose Factory, Where His Father Was Factor—Entered the Bank's Service in 1865 and Progress Upward Has Been Steady.

Very few Canadians nowadays receive hereditary titles. In recent years Lord Strathcona and Mount-Stephen and Sir Charles Tupper, Bart., have been the only examples. Sir Edward Seaborne Clouston, who received a baronetcy in the distribution of King's birthday honors is general manager of the Bank of Montreal, and the first Canadian to be so honored. Sir Charles Tupper in 1865, Sir Edward Seaborne Clouston, who received a baronetcy in the distribution of King's birthday honors is general manager of the Bank of Montreal, and the first Canadian to be so honored.

His father, afterwards chief factor of the Hudson Bay Co., was then in charge of Moose Factory. Young Clouston received his education in Montreal, and in 1865 entered the service of the Bank of Montreal as a junior clerk. The upward way was long, but step by step, with unwearied patience and with diligence, Mr. Clouston rose to the position of general manager, 1887, acting general manager, 1890, and general manager, 1891. For eighteen years, therefore, Mr. Clouston has been the chief executive officer of Canada's greatest financial institution. The Bank of Montreal has been most successful under his care and in the national field he has been much to give Canadian banking its solidity and safety. Sir Edward is a patron of the fine arts and is deeply interested in hospital work.

The Order of Baronets, the lowest hereditary rank, was instituted in 1611. Sir E. S. Clouston is the sixth Canadian to hold the title, the list being:

Sir Wm. George Johnson (4th), Major-General Sir Ed. Andrew Stuart (3d).

Sir John Beverley Robinson (4th), Sir Charles S. Ross.

Sir Charles Tupper, G.C.M.G., C.B. (3d).

Sunday School Lesson

CONDUCTED BY REV. E. D. JONES
January 24th, 1909.

Correspondence is invited upon any lesson, or points of difficulty. Address to Sunday School, Pioneer Office, Didsbury.

Golden Text, Acts 3:16. "And by faith in His name hath this man made this man strong, whom ye behold and know."

Lesson 1—Acts 3:1-16.

Verses 1-11 give us a splendid lesson upon true charity. (a) Verses 1-7 show what true charity really is. A man who was lame sat and begged. Whilst people were disposed to give, he was willing to receive. Gifts of money depraved him, and he grew to be more and more indifferent to the world's work. He expected to receive money from Peter and John, they, however, had learned from Jesus what true living meant.

Questions.—In what does true charity consist? Did Jesus teach us to give alms? What kind of alms did He consider we ought to bestow? (See Luke 11:34-42). True charity means the imparting of hope, courage, refinement and self-respect to needy men and women. We must seek to help the needy ones, giving or lending them employment, thus relieving them from being idle, giving them also a new view of life and inspiring them to share in the work of the world. (b) Verses 8-12 tell us what the results of true charity are. We see here that not a man's apparent needs, but the man himself must be considered. Peter seems to say "Do not sit there wasting (time, life, walk and work)." The poor deformed, defective and ungrateful life is converted into a healthy, vigorous, working contribution to the Kingdom of God.

Questions.—How is the power of changing lives communicated? Show that it is given through Christ working in us. Jesus through us draws men and women unto Himself. What are the results of true charity? (see verses 8-12).

Verses 12-16 give us a severe lesson upon sinful ignorance. Ignorance resulted in the denial and crucifixion of Jesus. Ignorance always defile. Show that ignorance is always sinful when knowledge is possible. The Jews sinned in that they were ignorant after all the teaching of the prophets (see verse 18). What is the faith in Christ which makes people strong? Show that it is an active appropriation of, and a steady standing by Christ.

Verses 17-26 define and urge repentance. What is repentance? (see verses 19 and 26). Peter's simple definition is that of returning to God. Repentance is a turning change in the direction of the life. It is a turning from the self, a retracing of one's footsteps and a confession of what has been abandoned. Why does God urge us to repent? Does repentance show weakness or strength of character?

NOTE.—I shall be pleased if teachers receiving good answers to the questions suggested will send them to me. Give the name of the scholar with each answer. A few of these answers may be published from week to week.

Three Hills

January 11th.

Mr. A. W. Pratt was in Calgary last week on business in connection with getting a new churn for the creamery.

The cold wave which visited this vicinity last week was the severest on record. On Thursday the thermometer registered 64 below.

There is a good opening at Three Hills for a branch office of some chartered bank.

What might have been a fatal accident occurred at the shaft mine on Saturday. While J. Cuthbert was engaged at the bottom of the shaft the hoisting bucket was lowered and in some unaccountable manner it swung to one side, striking Mr. Cuthbert on the head inflicting wounds necessitating the attendance of a surgeon. We are pleased to state that Jim will be around again in a few days.

TWO IN ONE ALBERTA FAMILY

Cured of Eczema by D.D.D. Prescription. Mrs. M. McGilivray of Nanton, Alta., tells of her experience last spring.

She wrote us on March 6th, 1908: "I am glad to say I received the three One Dollar Bottles of D.D.D. and two cakes of Soap safely, and am delighted with the result of the D.D.D. Prescription and Soap. The Soap is all that is required to complete the treatment. The little box of two years and a half is to all appearances cured of the dreadful Eczema."

"My baby girl at two months broke out with the same rash and I treated her with the D.D.D. and am perfectly satisfied she is cured, for our great joy. I feel sure it is a splendid remedy for all skin diseases and I can highly recommend it, will always try and keep a bottle as a household remedy, for we feel thankful to you for it. I shall be glad to recommend it to any one suffering with skin trouble."

Why let the little ones suffer tortures from horrid, itching skin diseases? Why upset their stomachs with the drugs when D.D.D. Prescription, applied externally, will give instant relief and a speedy cure?

For Burns and Scalds.—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil will take the fire out of a burn or scald more rapidly than any other preparation. It should be at hand in every kitchen so that it may be available at any time. There is no preparation required. Just apply the oil to the burn or scald and the pain will abate and in a short time cease altogether.

Mrs. Green—You have never taken it to the cemetery.

Mr. Green—No, no, dear. I still have that pleasure in anticipation.—Judge.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally, and it cures from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucus surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Didn't Know How to Draw It.

A teacher in a certain eastern school asked her class to draw a picture of that which they wished to be when they grew up. The pupils went diligently to work with paper and pencil, some drawing pictures of soldiers, policemen, fire engines, etc. They all worked hard but one little girl, who sat quietly holding her pad and pen in her hand. The teacher observing her, asked—"Don't you know what you want to be when you grow up."

"Yes, I know," replied the little girl. "I know I want to be married, but I don't know how to draw it."

A young lady, on her vacation said: "Oh, auntie, it's such a luxury to have nothing to do but just loaf in a hammock with my precious 'Shelley' or even the 'Vicar of Wakefield'." "Child," said the aunt, "if I hear of any more such scandalous doings I shall write to your mother."—Philadelphia Ledger.

He was a speculator, and for a year past nothing had been coming his way except expenses. Misfortunes never come by themselves. One day his daughter informed him in a cold and unforgiving manner, that if he did not give her a diamond ring worth at least a thousand she would elope with the coachman.

"Come to my arms, my darling," he exclaimed, as tears of joy coursed down his wrinkled cheeks. "Come to my arms."

"Did you get the tiana?" she asked, holding her eye she accepted his invitation.

"Of course not," he smiled, delightedly. "You get the coachman. I owe him nine months' wages."—Harper's Weekly.

No matter whether baby is sick or well, Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in the house. They not only cure the minor disorders of childhood, but prevent them. The little ones show the slightest signs of illness. Children take the Tablets as easily as candy, and they are absolutely safe. George H. Howell, Sandy Beach, Que., says: "My baby was greatly troubled with colic and cried night and day, but after giving him Baby's Own Tablets the trouble disappeared. I advised mothers to use this medicine." Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail for 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Carat.

This standard of weight, although not one person in a million ever makes practical use of it, possesses great prestige because of its connection with diamonds and other precious stones. But how many rubbers have any clear idea of the weight represented by a carat? In England it is customary to reckon 15 1/2 carats to the ounce Troy. This makes the carat equivalent to 205.3 milligrams, or 3.168 grains. An attempt is now being made to secure general recognition in all countries of a metric standard carat of 200 milligrams.

An Oklahoma Curiosity.
Oklahoma presents a citizen who for weight and breadth probably has no equal in the country. At a little town called Singer there is a living curiosity in the person of See-kou-to, an American Caddo Indian, who is wider than he is long. He measures seven feet and four inches around the waist and is less than six feet tall. He is twenty-six years of age and weighs 260 pounds. For obesity he is conceded to be a world leader and is constantly offering an offer to tour the world.—Utica Press.

A clever idea is the new guest book of which one hostess has thought. It is long and narrow, with a cardstock cover and blank sheets of writing paper on the inside. Suffered 10 Months with Kidney Complaint. Gin Pills Cured.

Dunvegar, Inverness Co. I am perfectly cured of Kidney complaint after taking the first Pill I obtained relief, and now after three months I feel as well as ever.

I suffered ten months and the Physician attending me advised me to go to the Victoria Hospital at Halifax, as he could do nothing more for me. I may add that I used a great deal of medicine, and strictly followed my physician's directions regarding diet, etc., but without avail, until provisionally I was cured of years' most excruciating remedy. I am recommending Gin Pills.

A SCIENTIFIC RUBE.

Knew More Than the Expert When It Came to Local Conditions.

"We were sitting around the stove in the bar of the little hotel in a Maine town," writes an electrical salesman in the Electrical Review, "when the electric lights flickered and went out."

"From the darkness came a solemn voice that said:

"Electric lights all out, O'gosh, and yet it ain't blown hard, either. Something's happened to the dynamo, maybe."

"I had been selling electrical supplies to the little lighting companies for several months, but I had never heard this particular idea expressed before."

"I laughed long and loud and was all the more amused when no one joined me."

"After they had lighted a big kerosene lamp I proceeded to explain to the crowd that incandescent lamps can't be blown out by the wind. When I had finished the old rube who had commented on the light said:

"Look here, young man, if you know a little something about local conditions and about your own business, you'd better get the wires in this town are hung up slack on the poles in some places and that they get to sagging in a good stiff breeze. When the wind comes, it pulls that puts the line out of business."

BALLOONING.

It is a Safe and Simple Sport, but Not a Cheap One.

The only peril in a balloon ascension in such good weather as careful aeronauts choose for a voyage is in alighting, and in a well ordered expedition, where all the passengers keep cool and cling to the car, there is no danger at all.

Even if the wind is blowing hard the strong, elastic, woven willow basket takes up the danger part of the shock. One of these baskets ought to yield up its passengers unharmed from a landing in a wind blowing fifty miles an hour.

Ballooning under moderately favorable circumstances is a safe and simple sport. It is not, comparatively speaking, a cheap amusement. An ascent, including the cost of gas, expense of a pilot and transportation of passengers and balloon hose, costs in this country from $35 to $75 a passenger. It is less in France. From Paris you can make an ascension for about a hundred francs.

The fare home is a very variable expense. Nothing is more uncertain than the spot where you will land. Of course it is easy to descend whenever you like. You may limit your flight to a couple of hours, or alight White Horse in Success Magazine.

A Sea Story.

"Of all my sea experiences," said the captain, "this was the strangest."

The ladies at the handsome captain's table said "Hush!" to one another and turned to the rapidly mariner with listening smiles.

"We were carrying," he said, "a lot of troops horses. A dreadful storm overtook us, and for two days we wallowed in the trough of a heavy sea. Finally it was decided that, to lighten the ship, the horses must go overboard."

"They went overboard in the morning. As soon as they saw that they were abandoned they turned and began to swim. They swam after us. Bravely, desperately, they swam. They followed us for miles and miles. I can still see them, a long line, their necks arched, pushing heroically through the heavy sea."

"They sank, poor brutes, one by one."

The captain smiled sadly.

"And I still seem to have," he said, "all those deaths on my conscience."

The Allegheny Mountains.

Not more than five or six presidents down to Lincoln's time ever crossed the Allegheny mountains, and four of these were western men who had to cross the mountains to reach Washington. President Jackson, Polk, General W. H. Harrison and Taylor. President Monroe crossed the mountains on his return trip from west to east in 1817. Van Buren came west in 1842, two years after the expiration of his presidential term, and saw the mountains for the first time. It was on this trip that he was upset and dumped in the mud near Plainfield, Hendricks county.—Exchange.

Covered With Sores

WITH USE OF
Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment

Baby eczema brings keen suffering to many a little one and worry and anxiety to many a mother, who can find nothing to cope with it—nothing that will stop the dreadful itching and heal the raw, flaming skin.

Doctors fail, internal medicines are at the best slow and uncertain, and often do more harm than good to young children. Dr. Chase's Ointment, on the other hand, is applied direct to the diseased parts and brings relief and cure.

Mrs. Robt. Narrie, Sine, Hastings Co., Ont., writes:—"Our little girl had itching eczema over her face and shoulders, and we could get nothing to help her until we began the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. This ointment healed the sores rapidly and six boxes made a complete cure. It is a pleasure to recommend a preparation which has proven of so great value."

Mr. Oakley W. Beamer, Boyle, Ont., writes:—"For two years I suffered from eczema, and was perfectly disfigured about the head and face. I tried doctors in vain, but one of the other hand, is applied direct to the diseased parts and brings relief and cure."

Wherever there is itching of the skin or a sore that refuses to heal, you can apply Dr. Chase's Ointment with every confidence that the results will be satisfactory.

While thoroughly effective in the most severe cases of eczema and salt rheum, Dr. Chase's Ointment does not injure the most delicate skin. 50 cents a box at all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.
